Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as meal when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of indigestible material in the form of ash; so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infect the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and poison-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of lime stone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.—Adv.

CHILDREN NEED FOOD—NOT ALCOHOL

How careless it is to accept alcoholic medicine for children when everybody knows that their whole health and growth depends upon correct nourishment. If your children are pale, listless, underweight or puny, they absolutely need the special, concentrated food that only During school term all children should be given Scott's Emulsion because it benefits their blood, sharpens their appetite and rebuilds their strength by sheer force of its great nourishing power. TO CURB THE DISLOYAL.

Every loyal American ought to urge his Congressman and Senator to support those measures now before Congress which make provision for the imposition of drastic penalties for disloyal acts and utterances. Not that there is doubt of the attitude of most members of Congress with respect to the proposed laws, but that they may know how earnest is the conviction of the people that the time has come when there must be a stern and uncompromising suppression of enemy activities throughout the country.

Both as a people and as a nation we have been foolishly tolerant of the friends, secret and open, of Germany here at home. We have been much given to long-range verbal castigation of Emperor William and his war-lords, but we have apparently closed our eyes to the machinations, plots and outrages of the paid and volunteer German agents within our own borders. Taking advantage of our apathy and seeming indifference these enemies of America have extended their insidious propaganda in every conceivable direction, solely for the purpose of strengthening and sustaining the German cause through weakening our own.

Efforts in this direction are naturally to be expected of alien German residents, but they are not alone in the commission of overt acts or the spread of pro-Germanism and everything that is anti-American. In many communities there are persons, some native-born and others naturalized citizens, who have been persistent and often outspoken in their praise of the Kaiser and the denunciation of America. Such persons must no longer be permitted to enjoy immunity from punishment for their pernicious behavior.

Existing laws do not provide adequate means of reaching offenders of this class. To meet the situation new laws are proposed among which is one providing for imprisonment for 20 years and $10,000 fine for "whoever shall by word or act support or favor the cause of the German Empire or its allies in the present war, or by word or act oppose the cause of the United States therein." The same penalties apply in the case of persons obstructing government war bond issues and for wilfully "attempting" as well as actual attempts, to obstruct recruiting or enlistments in the army, "also for acts which actually, or are intended, or which there is reason to believe," are intended to injure or destroy war material and utilities.

Another proposed measure makes the transmission by mail, or otherwise of any matter published in the language of any nation with which the United States is at war an offense punishable by a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for five years.

Neither of these measures is too harsh. In fact no law can be made too drastic to meet the situation which needs a corrective that will prove effective. Congress should not delay a day longer than is necessary in enacting the proposed laws, first providing proper punishment for officers who do not enforce them rigidly and without favor to the most influential or in fear of the most desperate pro-German of them all.

Unless they have a Cumberland or two in France, it is difficult to figure out how the Hitler protection that half a million American soldiers will carry French girls before they come home can come true.

The fall on the western front does not sound good.

Pastor Probst was not the only Presbyterian to receive a dividend. He himself has been declaring them right along through the church year, but paying them in a different medium than he has received.

With the departure yesterday from Connellsville and vicinity of the last contingent of selectives there are now 91 more reasons why Bill must sooner or later get out of the Kaiser's business.

Having brought 14 babies to one home, nobody can accuse the Ohtopie
Stork of being a slacker.

Are you beginning to realize how the calls to service are thinning the ranks of the young men in the city and vicinity?

In the estimation of certain partisans, who pose as the only real Simon pure patriots, the only public speakers engaged in informing the people as to war conditions, from either the Washington or European point of view, who are entitled to respectful attention or consideration, are those who make their addresses the occasion for boosting the perpetuation of Democrats in office.

The spring carpet bombardment will soon be raging on all the backyard fronts.

What did you do yesterday to help win the war?

Concerning Capes for Evening

In the face of changing styles that make up the panorama of the seasons there are a few things that reappear each year and show some degree of stability of form. A long and ample cape of handsome fur is an instance of this. Every winter we are sure to meet the fur cape among the rich possessions of some matronly wearer, who knows better than to change it with a shape less enduringly good. The long, full cape is never entirely out of the running. After all, it seems the best of all garments to choose when costly furs, growing always rarer, are to be made up.

Very rich and splendid fabrics could not be better treated than by following the suggestion for furs. Heavy and gorgeous brocades and velvets demand the simplest liner and need not be changed at the whim of fashion. Women who own wonderfully embroidered mantles would not consider changing and modernizing such works of art; they belong to no particular dressy season and are best worn as they were originally made.

The evening wrap pictured is a long, full mantle with its upper portion made of broad satin, and the lower portion a wide flounce of black velvet. It is lined with black and gold figured crepe de chine and employs glossy black marten fur for the wide collar and the band of fur that joins the flounce of velvet to the broad cape. On the inside of the mantle, at each side a velvet strap allows the hand to slip through it. When the cape is closed this forms a loose drape about the arm and supports the cape at the front.

For an evening wrap that is not required to furnish much warmth along with beauty, this model might be developed in taupe colored chiffon velvet with a lighter weight brocade in harmonizing colors. In that case a marabout band and collar would provide the right sort of finish and a lining in rose or blue add lovely color.

HOME GARDEN SHOULD PRODUCE SURPLUS FOR WINTER STORAGE

Boys Gathering the Product of Their Work, and They Are Pleased.

A half-acre garden, if cared for properly, will produce far more vegetables than the average family can consume during the maturing period of the crops. Only a small portion of a garden of this size should be devoted to those vegetables that must be used as soon as they reach maturity. It is advisable to devote the major portion of the space to those crops which if not needed at once may be kept for winter use. In fact, if the space is available the garden should be planned with the definite purpose of growing crops for storage for winter use.

Late beets, late cabbage, carrots, celery, onions, parsnips, late potatoes, sweet potatoes, salsify, and late turnips may be stored in their natural condition and if possible should be grown to the extent of the family needs for storage for winter use.

Work Garden All Season.

It is possible in nearly all sections of the country to grow late beets, late cabbage, late potatoes and turnips on ground that has already produced a crop of lettuce, radishes, beans, early peas, early potatoes, or some crop requiring a relatively short period for its maturity. Gardeners are inclined to neglect the opportunities for crop production in the garden after the first of the season has passed and frequently space is allowed to lie idle that should be producing a crop of late potatoes, cabbage or turnips. In sections where the season is short it is possible to plant the late crops between the rows of early crops before the early crops are removed, thus gaining two or three weeks' time.

Late potatoes may be planted on ground from which early peas or string beans have been removed.

Late cabbage may be planted between the rows of early potatoes before this crop is mature. Turnips may be sown between the rows of late corn and late bush beans. Late beets may be planted between the rows of late beans and will grow long after frost has killed the beans.

Storage in the Home.

By utilizing every square foot of space in the garden a considerable quantity of vegetables may be grown for storage for winter use. If no storage facilities exist in the home all the crops suitable for keeping may be stored in outdoor banks or pits. However, it is not at all difficult to provide storage facilities in most homes, it being only necessary to make use of the cellar, the attic, a large closet, or other parts of the dwelling, depending upon the character of the product to be stored.

Beans, including the Limas, may be stored dry, and it is advisable to grow them to as great an extent as possible for winter use. Limas and other pole beans may be planted around the fence, it being possible in this way to produce considerable quantities of dried beans for winter use. The pods should be allowed to remain on the vines until dry enough to rattle, should then be gathered, spread on the attic floor or in a bin to plant the late crops between the rows of early crops before the early

MEATLESS DAYS SUSPENDED

According to an announcement the Government has suspended meatless days, which have been established for sometime, for a period of thirty days. We do not mention this to induce you to buy more meat; we feel, notwithstanding that ruling or order, everybody ought to conserve on meats and fats, but our purpose is to call your attention to our attractive, sanitary meat markets. Meats are high priced now-a-days, everybody admits that; scarce too—admit that also, but a comparison of prices will find the Union Supply Company lower than most competition, and a comparison of shops and equipment and service will find the Union Supply Company just a little bit better than most opposition; a comparison of stocks in the meat market, the variety, the quality, the quantity, will convince you that the Union Supply Company is just a little bit the best. The extraordinary quantities of fresh beef, fresh pork, salt and smoked meats, sausages, and all kinds of meat and meat products, is further evidence that the Union Supply Company's meat markets are just a little bit better. These markets also are supplied semi-weekly with fresh fish, fresh eggs, butter, a variety of cheese, schmier kaese; a complete line of salt and smoked fish, sardines and canned salmon. It is certainly to your advantage to buy from our meat markets.

Uncle Sam's Food Lessons

(Special Information Service U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

CHOOSE YOUR FOOD WISELY.

Study These Five Food Groups. Every food you eat may be put into one of these groups. Each group serves a special purpose in nourishing your body. You should choose some food from each group daily.

1. Vegetables and fruits.
2. Milk, eggs, fish, meat, cheese, beans, peas, peanuts.
3. Cereals—cornmeal, oatmeal, rice, bread, etc.
4. Sugar, sirups, jelly, honey, etc.
5. Fats—butter, margarine, cottonseed oil, olive oil, drippings, suet.

You can exchange one food for another in the same group. For example, oatmeal may be used instead of wheat, and eggs, or sometimes beans, instead of meat; but oatmeal cannot be used instead of milk. Use both oatmeal and milk.

You need some food from each group every day—DON'T SKIP ANY.

Here are the reasons why you need the five groups:

Fruits and vegetables furnish some of the material from which the body is made and keep its many parts working smoothly. They help prevent constipation which gives you headaches and makes you stupid. The kinds you choose depend upon the season, but remember that the cheaper ones are often as valuable as the more expensive.

Milk, eggs, fish, meat, peas, beans—These help build up the growing body and renew worn-out parts. That is their main business. Dried peas and beans make good clothes to use in place of meat part of the time, but don't leave out the other foods entirely. Milk is the most important. Buy at least a pint a day for every member of your family. No other food can take its place for children. Save on meat if you must, but don't skip on milk.

Cereals—Bread and breakfast foods.

These foods act as fuel to let you do your work, much as the gasoline burning in an automobile engine makes the car go. This you can think of as their chief business. And they are usually your cheapest fuel. Besides, they give your body some building material.

Don't think that wheat bread is the only kind of cereal food. The government asks us to save wheat to send abroad to our soldiers and the allies. Let the North try the Southern corn bread and the South the oatmeal of the North. Half the fun of cooking is in trying new things. An oatmeal pudding is delicious.

Sugar and Sirups are fuel, too, and they give flavor to other foods. They are valuable food, but many people eat more of them than they need. Sweet fruits, of course, contain much sugar and are better for the children than candy.

Fat—Fat is fuel. Some is needed especially by hard-working people. Remember that expensive fats are no better fuel than cheap ones. Use drippings. Don't let your butcher keep the trimmings from your meat. They belong to you. Children need some butter or fat. Give it to them in plenty of whole milk or in butter.

Remember the Five Groups.

Depth for Planting Beans. Beans of any kind should not be planted any deeper than is necessary to secure good germination. This should never be more than 2 inches and on heavy soil it should not be more than 1 1/2 to 2 inches.

Many Gardens Neglected.

Many gardens which start very favorably in the spring gradually decline in productivity as the season advances, and become weed patches long before fall arrives.

Great Nitrogen User. Corn is a great user of nitrogen. While potatoes and root crops need plenty of potassium. Has your soil enough of these?

Don't Experiment.

Do not experiment with crops about which you know nothing. There is no easy way of beating the crop production game.

WEAR Horner's Clothing

PATRONIZE THOSE WHO ADVERTISE

By C. A. VOIGHT

A ringing laugh from the cramped hallway interrupted these reflections; then a moment later Doctor Alvarado was introducing O'Reilly to a young woman so completely out of the picture, so utterly the opposite of his preconceived notions that he was momentarily at a loss. Johnnie found himself looking into a pair of frank gray eyes, and felt his hand seized by a firm, almost masculine grasp. Miss Evans, according to his first dazzling impression, was about the most fetching creature he had ever seen and about the last person by whom any young man could be bored. The girl—and she was a girl—had brought into the room an electric vitality, a brightness hard to describe. Altogether she was such a vision of healthy, unaffected and smartly gotten up young womanhood that O'Reilly could only stammer his acknowledgment of the introduction, inwardly berating himself for his awkwardness.

Alvarado placed an affectionate hand upon Miss Evans' shoulder. "O'Reilly, this girl has done more for Cuba than any of us. She has spent a small fortune for medical supplies," said he.

"Those poor men must live on guanine," the girl exclaimed. "Anyone who can bear to take the stuff ought to have all he wants. I've a perfect passion for giving pills."

O'Reilly liked this girl. He had liked her the instant she favored him with her friendly smile, and so, trusting faithfully to his masculine powers of observation, he tried to analyze her. He could not guess her age, for an expensive ladies' tailor can bamboozle the most discriminating eye. Certainly, however, she was not old—he had an idea that she would tell him her exact age if he asked her. While he could not call her beautiful, she was something immensely better—she was alive, human, interesting and interested. The fact that she did not take her "mission" over-seriously proved that she was also sensible beyond most women. Yes, that was it. Miss Norine Evans was a perfectly sensible, unspoiled young person who showed the admirable effects of clean living and clean thinking coupled with a normal, sturdy constitution. O'Reilly told himself that here was a girl who could pour ten nurse a sick man, or throw a baseball.

And she was as good as her promise. She did not interrupt when, during dinner, Alvarado and Johnnie talked about his latest experience in Cuba.

"I'm Going Right to the Insurrection With You."

but, on the contrary, her unflagging interest induced O'Reilly to address his talk more often to her than to the doctor. He soon discovered that she understood the Cuban situation as well as or better than he, and that her sympathies were keen. She was genuinely moved by the pallant struggle of the Cuban people, and when the dinner was over she expressed a surprise which left both men speechless.

"This settles it with me," she announced. "I'm going right to the insurrection with you."

"With me?" O'Reilly could not conceal his lack of enthusiasm. "I don't know that the junta will take me."

"They will if I ask them. You say the rebels have no hospitals, no nurses—"

"We do the best we can, with our equipment."

"Well, I'll supply better equipment, and I'll handle it myself. I'm in earnest. You shan't stop me."

The physician stirred uneasily. "It's utterly absurd," he expostulated. "Some women might do it, but you're not the sort. You are—pardon me—a most attractive young person. You'd be thrown among rough men."

"Mr. O'Reilly will look out for me. But, for that matter, I can take care of myself. Oh, it's of no use trying to discourage me. I always had my own way. I'm completely spoiled."

"Your family will never consent."

"Really, wasn't; whereupon Miss Evans laughed.

"I haven't such a thing. I'm alone and unaccompanied. No girl was ever so fortunate. But you'll settle this whole thing in a minute." She quitted her table, ran to Alvarado's telephone, and called a number.

"She's after Enriquez," growled the physician. "He's weak; he can't refuse her anything."

"I don't want a woman on my hands," O'Reilly whispered, fiercely. "Suppose she got sick? Good Lord! I'd have to nurse her." He wiped a sudden moisture from his brow.

"Oh, she won't get sick. She'll probably nurse you—and all the other men. You'll like it, too, and you will all fall in love with her—everybody does—and start fighting among yourselves. There! She has Enriquez. Listen."

Johnnie shivered apprehensively at the directness with which Miss Evans put her request. "You understand, I want to go and see for myself," she was saying. "If you need medicines I'll give them—bushels of the nastiest stuff I can buy. I'll organize a field hospital. . . . Oh, very well, call it a bribe, if you like. Anyway, I'm fully determined to take care of me. He's charmed with the idea." Miss Evans giggled. "That means you'll have to take him along, too."

There followed a pause during which the two men exchanged dismayed glances.

"She doesn't seem to care what she says," O'Reilly murmured. "But—I'll put a flea in Enriquez' ear."

"Put it in writing, please." There was a wait. "Now read it to me. . . . Good!" Miss Evans fairly purred over the telephone. "Send it to me by messenger right away; that's a dear. I'm at Doctor Alvarado's house, and he's beside himself with joy. Thanks, awfully. You're so nice." A moment, and she was back in the dining room facing her two friends—a picture of triumph. "You have nothing more to say about it," she gloated. "The provisional government of Cuba, through its New York representatives, extends to Miss Norine Evans an invitation to visit its temporary headquarters in the Sierra de—something or other, and deems it an honor to have her as its guest so long as she wishes to remain there. Now then, let's celebrate."

She executed a dance step, plopped herself down into her chair. She rattled her cup, and saucer noisily, crying, "Fill them up, Doctor Gloom. Let's drink to Cuba Libre!"

Johnnie managed to smile as he raised his demitasse. "Here's to my success as a chaperon," said he. "I'm disliked by the Spaniards, and now the Cubans will hate me. I can see happy days ahead."

O'Reilly arose early the next morning and hurried down to the office of the junta, hoping that he could convince Mr. Enriquez of the folly of allowing Norine Evans to have her way. But his respect for Miss Evans' energy and initiative deepened when, arriving at 56 New Street, he discovered that she had forewarned him and was even then closer with the man he had come to see. Johnnie waited uneasily, he was dismayed when the girl finally appeared, with Enriquez in tow, for the man's face was radiant.

"It's all settled," she announced, at sight of O'Reilly. "I've speeded them up."

"You're an early riser," the latter remarked. "I hardly expected—"

Enriquez broke in. "Such enthusiasm! Such ardor! She whirls a person off his feet."

"It seems that the junta lacks money for another expedition so I've made up the deficit. Well be off in a week."

"Really? Then you're actually—going?"

"Of course. Don't be hateful and argumentative, or I'll begin to think you're a born chaperon." Miss Evans exclaimed. "Come! Make up your mind to endure me. And now you're going to help me buy my tropical outfit."

With a smile and a nod at Enriquez she took O'Reilly's arm and bore him away.

The days of idle waiting that followed were trying, even to one of O'Reilly's philosophical habit of mind. He could learn nothing about the junta's plans, and, owing to his complete uncertainty, he was unable to get work.

At last there came a message which brought them great joy. Enriquez directed them to be in readiness to leave Jersey City at seven o'clock the following morning. Neither Johnnie nor Leslie Branch slept much that night.

As they waited in the huge, barnlike station, Enriquez appeared with Norine Evans upon his arm. The girl's color was high, she was tremulous with excitement. Leslie Branch, who saw her for the first time, emitted a low whistle of surprise.

"Glory be! That goddess!" he cried. When Norine took his bony bloodless hand in her warm grasp and flashed him her frank, friendly smile, he captivated instantly.

Enriquez was introducing a newcomer now, one Major Ramos a square-jawed forceful Cuban who, it seemed, was to be in command of the expedition.

NOT SORRY NOW. IT COSTS MORE.

Does Not Regret His Eating Is More Expensive Due to Tanlac.

This convincing Tanlac story was told by C. J. Swires, of 1819 Eighth Ave., Altoona, a signal fitter.

"I have been a great sufferer from catarrh in an advanced state, Mr. Swires began. 'I have used everything I ever heard of I believe he continued, 'but nothing I used helped me one particle. There were mucous discharges from my nose that affected my throat, violent coughing, offensive breath, impaired appetite, dizzy spells, and altogether, I was in a nervous, run-down condition and contracted colds."

"I heard of the wonderful work of this new medicine Tanlac and I immediately got me some of the medicine. I am certainly glad that I purchased the medicine and began taking it when I did, as it has done me a world of good. I have taken two bottles of Tanlac and am now on my third. This statement of mine is therefore not hasty, but is based on ample proof. All the symptoms from which I have suffered have disappeared and I believe Tanlac has cured me. I am, however, going to keep on taking the medicine as I believe I will get better than I ever was in my life."

Tanlac is now sold here by the Connellsville Drug Co. Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Eason's Drug Store.

SCHMIDT, WHO RETIRED, MAY RETURN TO GAME

Charles Schmidt, who as first baseman for the world's champion Boston Braves of 1915 was one of the few big league baseball players to actually enter retirement in the height of their prime may come back.

But, should the players who rose from the Baltimore sand lots to a regular position with the team that won baseball's premier honors after one of the greatest spurts in the game's history, really decide to again don a uniform it will be merely through an act of patriotism.

His business is thriving and baseball could never call him back unless he thought he were needed to help fill the ranks of those who may be called off to war.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"INTOLERANCE"—D. W. Griffith's greatest spectacle, said to have cost two million dollars, to utilize the service of 125,000 people, and to take three years in the making will commence its engagement of two days, matinee and night, at the Orpheum theatre, Monday, April 8. Its theme, that of love's struggle throughout the ages, is told by the novel means of four parallel stories. The scenes of these stories are Babylon of 539 B. C., Jerusalem of 70 A. D., France of 1572 A. D., and America of the present. The most celebrated seven stars of this country have interpreted the leading roles of the different episodes. For sheer splendor and magnitude of settings, for tense and thrilling action, the Babylonian scenes are said to be the most striking. Here the leading figures are Belshazzar, his Princess Beloved, and the Mountain Girl who loves her king in secret. So historically correct is Mr. Griffith's reproduction of this ancient world city, and its life that famous Babylonian authorities have publicly commended it. The attack of Cyrus, the Persians, who sought to conquer Belshazzar, and his repulse, a mighty clash of men and about the towering walls of Babylon has been acclaimed the most realistic conflict ever staged. Over 40,000 men, 7,500 horses and 1,500 chariots took part in this battle, which was waged with siege towers and flaming engines, battering rams, catapults, giant cross-bows, and liquid fire.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THAIS"—In which Greta Garbo, presents Mary Garden, the most celebrated woman in the world for her first screen appearance, is being shown today. "Thais" from the famous novel by Anatole France, is the story of a saint who became a sinner and the sinner who became a saint. It is a story of passion that has been translated into 18 languages. According to the action of the photoplay, "Thais" is a celebrated beauty in the city of Alexandria, whose innumerable love affairs have scandalized the civilized world. The time is just when Christianity is beginning to supersede pagan beliefs. From among her many lovers the fancy of "Thais" is engaged by Paphnagus, a wealthy young man who is noted for his learning. The young philosopher at once falls in love with the beauty, whereas a jealous rival plans his death. Just as he is emerging from the house, Thais sets upon him, but in self defense Paphnagus kills him. The outcome of this situation is one of the most thrilling portions of the film. The production will also be shown tomorrow.

THE ARCADE.

Zarrow's 1918 Follies at the Arcade yesterday pleased the biggest mixture of Conneltsville has had for years. It was composed mostly of ladies and children and it was the kind of show that pleases them. The big feature, the Lynch Trio, was compelled to take five encores and two bows, and even then the audience let them go reluctantly. "Seldom do performers so endear themselves with theatre-goers of a community. All the other acts are top-notch, too, and it seems a little unfair that it is necessary to place one number ahead of the other on the program, as they are all of real merit. The bill for today is "A Night on a Road Garden," and the picture is "Douglas Fairbanks in the only real subject he ever made, "The Martyr of the Flying Fish." The entire proceeds will be for the benefit of the war fund of the local Frisling Fraternity's Union. The usual price of admission will prevail. By a coincidence it was learned yesterday that Low Kellner, of the team of Kellner and Kellner, is a member of this union, and naturally he and his fellow performers will put up a great show. Coming next week is "Mersey's Submarine Girls," which is playing at the Dixie theatre, Uniontown, this week.

SOISSON THEATRE.

"A SECRET MARRIAGE"—If applause, laughter and merriment are indications of enjoyment, the audience at the Chester Bishop Players' performance of "A Secret Marriage" last night must have enjoyed itself immensely. The performance went with a dash and go unusual with first performances. The audience seemed in an especially good humor and laughed and applauded genuinely. While the play may not be classed with "The Island of Love"—the first play by this excellent company—it is one of the kind of plays that find a warm spot in the hearts of the people. The heart interest—the story of the fight of a good wife and mother to protect her name and child, is not only strong and compelling, but real. The comedy is infectious and kept the audience in almost constant laughter. Mr. Bishop gave a powerful and mainly performance as Wilbur Dean, while Virginia Duncan's performance of Louise Benjamin was almost perfect, and a real, live baby about six months old was brought into the play in the last act, much to the amusement of the audience. The entire company was cast in congenial roles and all gave good account of themselves. The scenic equipment is all that could be desired and is painted new for each play.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

"EXILE"—Me. Petrova in "Exile." Noted for her exotic, almost Oriental beauty and style, Madame Petrova, who is appearing in a screened version of "Exile" today and tomorrow, is wearing gowns of even more than her usual splendor and daring. Among them is one especially sumptuous affair of stiff, dull blue brocade heavily embroidered in silver. Many of the queer habits and mannerisms of the Arab people of a little colony in Asia are shown in this drama.

PLACE ORDERS FOR NEXT WINTER'S COAL NOW, SAYS GARFIELD

Only Way to Avoid Repetition of Last Season's Shortage in Supply.

CARS MUST BE KEPT BUSY

Every One Who Adds to the Loss in Production, and There is No Way to Make It Up! Cars Will Not Move Unless Coal Orders Have Been Placed.

In urging coal consumers to do all that they can to prevent a repetition next winter of last season's shortage, Fuel Administrator Garfield has issued the following appeal:

"Every household, every public utility, and every industrial user of coal engaged in work essential to the prosecution of the war, are earnestly advised and urged to place without delay their orders for coal to cover their needs for the 12 months beginning April 1. During the past 12 months there has been suffering among consumers and a curtailment of essential production by industries, through inability to obtain necessary fuel after the beginning of winter. A year ago consumers were led to believe that they might safely withhold their orders until later in the year. They labored under the impression that coal could be bought and secured as well at one time as another. They were told that there was plenty of coal for everybody and that there would be plenty of coal cars to move the coal in also. This advice and its acceptance by consumers was one of the contributing causes to the coal shortage with its consequent suffering among domestic consumers and curtailment in production of commodities needed in our war activities."

"The Fuel Administration was not then in existence and did not begin its work until August 22. It was then already too late to undo the harm which had been done. The Fuel Administration would be negligent of its duty to the public if it failed to call attention at this time to the unfortunate results of the mistaken course pursued by the public a year ago, and to warn all consumers in the most emphatic manner possible that a repetition of those results can be avoided only by accepting and acting immediately upon the Fuel Administration's advice, here given:

"Let every consumer of the classes mentioned ascertain his fuel requirements for the coming year. Do this at once. Order sufficient coal to meet these requirements. Place your orders at once. If domestic consumers have not sufficient storage space for the coal they will need, they should enlarge their bins. If public utilities and industries engaged upon government work have not sufficient storage space they should at once provide it."

"The production of coal in this country is fundamentally a transportation problem. There are enough coal cars and enough locomotives to transport the necessary quantity of coal for every car and every locomotive to its maximum capacity every day in the year. There are enough operatives in the mines to get the coal from the ground. If those operatives can work every day in the year, and if the coal cars and locomotives are available every day, if the coal cars are idle for a week or a month, the result is loss of a week's or a month's possible coal production. There is no way to make up this loss. The country needs the greatest utilization of the coal-carrying facilities every week and every month. It has no surplus cars and no surplus locomotives to carry more coal in a succeeding week or in a succeeding month, to make up for the failure to use the existing cars and locomotives in a preceding month."

"Owing to more favorable weather conditions, a greater quantity of coal can be transported each day from April to November, than is possible in each day from November to March. Conditions adverse to coal transportation are sure to exist every winter. Such adverse conditions were unusual in severity and long continued in the winter just passed. To an appreciable degree, however, they have existed every winter, and it is the part of foresight to suppose they will not be encountered next winter."

"There is plenty of coal in the ground to meet every need. This coal can be taken from the ground only in consequence of orders placed with the operators. If those orders are delayed, the coal remains where nature has put it. Coal operators have no other storage space for their coal. There is no storage space existed in the world for little benefit. The coal might as well remain in the mines as be stored at the mouth of the mines. In either case, to be used it must be transported to the points where needed. Consequently, it must be loaded on coal cars, and this is equally necessary whether the coal is taken directly from the mine to the car or taken from a storage pile at the mine's mouth to the car. Unless the operators have orders for their coal they can not load the coal cars, nor will the coal cars be placed at their mines. Without orders for coal the operators can not ship it, for they can give no directions where it should be taken."

"The fuel problem is to get the coal from the first place of deposit to the final place of deposit with as little delay as possible and in as steady and continuous a stream as circumstances will permit. The railroads may be compared to a water pipe, which needs to run full all the time to carry the necessary amount of water to its destination. If that water is shut off for any appreciable time, it means an all-time shortage. The pipe can carry no more than its maximum capacity per day."

"Inconvenience of paying for coal in the spring or summer, when it will be needed until autumn or winter, should not influence any consumer to delay placing his order and securing his supply. It is far wiser to borrow money in the spring to pay for one's coal than to wait until autumn or winter when, if the coal has not been mined and shipped, money can not procure it."

"The Fuel Administration, through the state fuel administrators and local committees, is prepared in every reasonable way to aid public utilities, essential industries, retail dealers, and domestic consumers in placing their orders and in securing assurance of a sufficient supply of fuel. All these governmental agencies, however, are powerless if the consumers themselves fail to act."

"Again, therefore, the Fuel Administration urges every consumer to place his orders immediately. This should ordinarily be done through the medium of supply upon which the consumer has relied in the past. If this course is followed, it may be hoped that the suffering and loss of the past winter will not be repeated. If it is not done, consumers will have themselves to blame."

Drive a Nail Here--Now.

In every healthy body there are fifty grains of iron, about as much as is contained in an ordinary "penny" nail. By reason of lack of iron in the blood many persons are anemic, pale, thin, emaciated, their blood corpuscles are uneven, instead of being round and full of good red blood, and the nerves are lacking in strength. Feed the nerves on good, rich, red blood, and one feels full of vigor.

How can we acquire good red blood? It is easily answered. For many years Dr. Pierce and his staff of physicians at the Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., experimented with iron and other tonics, and finally found a soluble iron which, when combined with native herbal extracts, made a wonderful blood and nerve tonic. This they named "Iron-Tonic." It can now be had at most drug stores, and comes in 60-cent vials. If you feel worn out before the day is half over, if your blood is poor, if you are pale, or pimply, or boils appear on the face or neck, go to the nearest drug store and get "Iron-Tonic" tablets. Take them regularly for thirty days, and you will notice the wonderful energizing effect. You will feel full of vim, vigor and vitality, instead of dull, tired and weak. If you wish to make a test send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and obtain a trial package. Do it now!

Doctor said, "Bio-feren had done wonders for her."

Case 1724—School teacher; Residence—Kentucky; severe operation; left her weak, anemic, nervous; low vitality. Physician recommended Bio-feren. Two weeks' treatment showed remarkable improvement. Doctor reported, "Bio-feren had done wonders for her."

Another case—Pennsylvanian, reports: "I have taken about one-half of the Bio-feren tablets and must confess that I feel like a new man."

A Kentuckian woman says: "I have taken Bio-feren regularly and feel much benefited. I can use my arms much better. However, can not get my hands to my head sufficiently to comb my hair, but I feel that I will soon be able to do that."

You want the vigorous health and ruddy beauty that is dependent on strength, nerves and red blood. Everybody does. Read those reports above, again. You, too, if you are dragged down in health and strength because of overwork, worry, nervous, and similar causes can rebuild your health and strength with Bio-feren. It is not a stimulant. It is a builder—a builder of better health.

Bio-feren contains some of the best ingredients known to the medical world, and is indicated for the treatment of run-down conditions due to overwork, worry, anæmia, melancholia, nervous debility, debility following infectious diseases, convalescence from acute fevers, etc. There is no secret nor mystery about Bio-feren. Every package shows the elements it contains. Ask your physician about it, or have him write and we will send him complete formula.

And don't forget that Bio-feren is sold only on condition that you will return the empty packages and allow us to refund your purchase price if, for any reason, you are not fully satisfied. Please bear that in mind for it is very important.

Bio-feren sells at $1.00 for a large package. Your druggist can supply you or we will send it direct upon receipt of $1.00; six packages for $5.00, should you have any trouble in securing it. The Sentinel Medicine Co., Inc., Mascot-Tampa, Cincinnati, Ohio.
